Dry Raid Nets 52 Arrests in St. Cloud Territory

AGENTS FROM 4 STATES GATHER TO MAKE ARRESTS

U. S. COMMISSIONER J. I. DONOHUE OF ST. CLOUD EXPECTED TO SET HIGH BAIL

COUNTRYSIDE REGARDED AS HOME OF "MINNESOTA THIRTEEN" CORN WHISKY

St. Cloud, Minn., Oct. 4.—(U.P.)—After a series of all night raids by 60 prohibition agents in this countryside which is regarded as the home of "Minnesota Thirteen" corn whisky, 52 persons were to appear before a United States commission today on charges of liquor violations.

The concentration of agents from Minnesota, North and South Dakota was the largest ever to come into Stearns and Benton counties to make a series of raids.

United States Commissioner J. I. Donohue of St. Cloud was expected to set a high bail for the 52 persons under arrest pending their trial on the liquor charges.

Undercover men during the past three months gathered evidence on which warrants were issued for the arrest of the 52 persons who came from St. Cloud and the nearby towns of Sauk Rapids, Cold Springs, Avon and Holdingford.

So large was the number of prisoners that two rooms in the Green hotel were taken over by agents as a headquarters and the jail was crammed to capacity with many forced to sleep on the floor of the corridors or huddle in jammed cells.

M. L. Harney, prohibition administrator in the eighth district, was assisted in directing the raid by Maurice Silverman, St. Paul, deputy administrator, and E. L. Senn, South Dakota deputy administrator, who came from Sioux Falls to aid in the raids.

St. Cloud, Minn., Oct. 4.—Relatives and friends of 52 persons arrested in Stearns county's greatest dry cleanup pledged nearly $75,000 today as bail for those arrested in the raids.

By midday more than 40 of those arrested had appeared before U. S. Commissioner J. I. Donohue to answer to charges of sale and possession of liquor and maintaining a nuisance. Nearly all of those arraigned furnished bonds ranging from $1,500 to $2,500, Donohue said.

A steady stream of prisoners were brought from the Stearns county jail where they were lodged last night. The squad of 60 prohibition agents concentrated in Stearns and Benton counties for the cleanup filled the commissioner's office to testify against those who had been arrested.

No additional raids were planned today due to the necessity for clearing up arraignments, Donohue said.

St. Paul, Oct. 4.—Accused of being leaders in a gang which imported more than $1,000,000 worth of Canadian liquors annually, three men were to be arraigned before United States Commissioners W. T. Goddard today.

They were D. E. Tracy, Brookside, operator of the Calhoun Beach Club garage where the liquor was said to have been found; Helge Palmquist, Schenker, Minn., and Jack Kennedy, who were arrested Thursday night as they brought truck loads of liquor into the garage.

Questioned so long by prohibition authorities late yesterday, the scheduled arraignment of the trio went over to today.

Joseph L. Green, chief customs agent for the northwest, announced he was prepared to ask bond of $10,000 for each of the men.

Cleveland, Oct. 4.—After conclusion of three weeks' work by two undercover agents, federal narcotic agents and city police in Cleveland and Akron today arrested 44 men and women on charges of peddling dope.

More than $75,000 worth of morphine, heroine and cocaine was seized, Ralph H. Oyler, agent in charge of the Ohio and Michigan districts, said.

Fourteen were arrested here and 31 in Akron, agents said. The value of the dope seized in the Akron raids was not known. Agents said they learned that nearly all of the drugs being illegally dispensed in northern Ohio are shipped from New York.

In an alleged drug den in the south east section of the city raiding agents were threatened with revolvers by three women after having forced their way through three barricaded doors. The women were subdued after a struggle. A large quantity of marihuana, a Mexican drug, was seized in the place.

BRAZILIAN STATE IS REPORTED TO BE IN REVOLT

IS AIMED AGAINST PRESIDENT-ELECT OF BRAZIL JULIO PRESTES

REVOLTERS ARE SAID TO NUMBER 8,000, OVERPOWERING A REGIMENT

Montevideo, Uruguay, Oct. 4.—(U.P.)—A revolutionary movement in the Brazilian state of Rio Grande do Sul, said to be aimed against President-elect of Brazil Julio Prestes assuming office November 25, was reported from the frontier town of Rivera today.

The revolt, reported to number some 8,000, were said to have overpowered the seventh Brazilian regiment stationed in the town of Santa Ana and Do Livramento. A report to the newspaper Imparcial from Rivera said that many Brazilians had fled over the border from Santa Ana, and that prolonged cannonading was audible.

Juan Francisco was reported to be heading the revolutionists.

Buenos Aires, Oct. 4.—The Brazilian embassy announced today the receipt of private information that a subversive movement had been started in the Brazilian state of Rio Grande do Sul against the government. The ambassador termed the movement "insignificant" and said it would be suppressed easily.

He said he believed Colonel Figueredo, commanding a brigade near the town of Alegrete, was at the head of the revolt.

Montevideo, Uruguay, Oct. 4.—Revolutionists against the Brazilian government were reported holding the frontier town of Santa Ana do Livramento today against siege by loyal federal troops.

Many revolutionaries who have lived in the border town of Rivera since 1925 were crossing the frontier to aid the movement against the government at Rio de Janeiro. Joad Francisco Pereira Da Souza was reported to have assumed command of the insurgents.

MALADMINISTRATION

CHARGES ARE AIRD

Washington, Oct. 4.—(U.P.)—Charges of maladministration of western oil shale lands, although gaining support in one official quarter, became involved today in counter-accusations questioning the motives behind them and asserting that Ralph S. Kelley was being exploited by the "designing hands of those who could use him to their own advantage."

Secretary of Interior Wilbur and Attorney General Mitchell criticized tactics of the suspended head of the general land office field division after they had been defied anew by Kelley. On the other hand, Chairman Nye of the senate public lands committee said he thought Kelley had been justified in his attempt to resign and his actions since.

Nye made it clear, however, that Secretary Wilbur was not involved in Kelley's allegations that the interior department showed favoritism to large oil companies in western Colorado oil shale concessions. The senator said he would investigate further and would press for a senatorial inquiry if the matter were not settled before congress meets in December.

Kelley talked to Nye for an hour or more yesterday but refused to confer with Assistant Attorney General Seth W. Richardson, named by Mitchell to conduct an oil shale inquiry.

COOLIDGES OBSERVE THEIR SILVER WEDDING ANNIVERSARY TODAY

Northampton, Mass., Oct. 4.—(U.P.)—Former President and Mrs. Calvin Coolidge observed their silver wedding anniversary today with characteristic simplicity.

No plans for a formal celebration had been made. It had been reported that their son John and his wife, the former Florence Trumbull, might come here from New Haven, Conn., to spend the day, but Herman C. Beatty, secretary to Mr. Coolidge, said they were not expected.

Sometime today Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge expected to start by automobile for Boston, where they will attend the national convention of the American Legion next week.

LINGLE MURDER MYSTERY MAY BE SOLVED SOON

CONSCIENCE STRICKEN CHAUFFEUR TESTIFIES TO CORONER'S JURY

FRANK BELL SAYS NOTORIOUS INDIANA, KENTUCKY GANG DID KILLING

Chicago, Oct. 4.—(U.P.)—The mystery of the murder of Alfred J. Lingle, Tribune reporter, was believed nearing a definite solution today after a conscience stricken chauffeur told a coroner's jury he had aided in the slaying.

Lingle was killed by Joe Traum and members of his notorious Indiana and Kentucky gang, Frank Bell, former convict who has been under arrest since June on charges of robbery and murder, told Coroner Herman N. Bundesen and a jury last night.

Traum, Bell, Richard Michael Sullivan and a blonde man whose name Bell did not know were hired, Bell testified, to kill the reporter for $10,000. They were to collect the money, he said, from Christ Patras, north side restaurant owner and friend of Jack Zuta, powerful gang leader who police say hated Lingle because the reporter "shook him down" and then double-crossed him.

When they tried to collect their $10,000 Bell testified, Patras drew a gun instead of money from his safe, a duel ensued and Patras was killed. A few months later Zuta was killed in a Wisconsin hotel resort.

Bell came to Chicago on April 9, he said, and met Traum, whom he had helped obtain a release from Leavenworth by making changes in Traum's parole papers. Bell was a trustee clerk at the prison.

The afternoon of June 9, Bell testified, he drove a stolen automobile with Traum and Sullivan as passengers, to the Illinois Central pedestrian subway where Lingle was slain. There, he said, they met the blonde man and Traum handed him a snub-nosed pistol which he had tested a few months before in an alley a few blocks away.

He waited, he testified, while Traum, Sullivan and the blonde man went into the tunnel to "kidnap a man." When they returned, Sullivan had been shot in the leg. They informed him their work had been done. The next day he read of the Lingle murder and said it was the first time he knew who their victim had been.

After Sullivan had recovered from the mysterious bullet wound, supposedly sustained as he was running from the tunnel, the two men went to Patras' restaurant to collect their money. The shooting of Patras followed.

Bell has been in jail since late June, Sullivan since late July. Police say both have confessed numerous robberies and to killing Patras.

Traum is in Leavenworth prison, where he and Bell first became acquainted. He was returned there recently for violating his parole. He was in Chicago June 9.

Coroner Bundesen said he has been checking Bell's confession for many weeks and has found no reason to doubt it. He hurriedly called a jury together last night and made public the story after he had become convinced that it was true.

Bell told the jury that he believed the blonde man whose name he did not know was the actual slayer of Lingle, whose death resulted in discovering that he was a racketeer, in a violent police "shake-up," and in bringing about a drive against crime that has had no parallel in the history of Chicago.

BURGLARS ARE BUSY IN ST. PAUL

THESE WITH HOLDUP MEN AND NIGHT PROWLERS SECURE $1,209

St. Paul, Oct. 4.—(U.P.)—Burglars, holdup men and prowlers last night obtained $1,209 a check up today revealed.

Three masked men entered a train carrying 19 Montana stockmen en route to South St. Paul near Atwater, Minn., and robbed them of $300.

Prowlers carted away clothing and jewelry valued at $809 while the C. A. Pearson family was away from its St. Paul home. The loss included silverware, a fur coat and neckpiece and an automatic revolver.

In Minneapolis, two men obtained $50 from F. W. Rose, grocer, in an exchange of gun fire, the men escaped but an officer heard the noise and caught one of the two. Rose fired when he grabbed a pistol secreted behind the counter. Other losses totaling $50 were reported in the Twin Cities.

Union Lake, Minn., Oct. 4.—(U.P.)—Two unmasked youths entered the Sjulstad general store south of here last night and held up L. C. Ewing, manager of the store, escaping with $20. Employing tactics similar to bank bandits, the men had Ewing lie on the floor while they looted the cash register.

Football radio, story of Vanderbilt fighting Minnesota, cut into the distant station report of world series baseball, with the result that local baseball fans lost some of their world series this afternoon.

TWO MEN AND WOMAN KILLED IN BRADDOCK, PA.

TWO BANDITS OPEN FIRE AT SMALL GROCERY STORE IN TOWN

SHOTS KILL PROPRIETOR AND HIS WIFE AND AN AGED CUSTOMER

Braddock, Pa., Oct. 4.—(U.P.)—Two men and a woman were killed and a third man was probably fatally wounded here today when two men stepped to the entrance of a small grocery store and opened fire with revolvers.

Mr. and Mrs. Grego Lobianco, both 29, proprietors of the store, and Louis Tomiano, 70, a customer, were killed. Witnesses said four men drove to the store and two of them ran to the entrance. They stood for a moment, firing their revolvers from side to side of the store. Their victims fell without an outcry. The men ran back to the car and were driven away.

The car used by the assassins was recovered by police. It had been abandoned a mile and half from the store. The men escaped.

Mrs. Lobianco, an expectant mother, was rushed to the Braddock hospital where efforts made to save the life of the child failed.

Grego Lobianco was dead when bystanders reached the store. Tomiano died a few minutes after his admission to the hospital. Mike Lobianco, 26, brother of Grego, was so badly wounded by physicians feared he would die.

James Toffe, 8, standing in the store at the time of the shooting, escaped injury. No motive for the slaying was advanced by police. First reports said a woman was driving the car and that the slayers used a machine gun. These reports were disputed by other witnesses who said there were four men and that revolvers were used.

Name Minnesotans on National Advisory Council of the League of Nations

FOUND GUILTY OF INCITING TREASON AMONG THE TROOPS

Leipzig, Germany, Oct. 4.—(U.P.)—Lieutenants Richard Scheringer, Hans Ludin and Hans Wendt, young officers of the reichswehr, were found guilty of inciting treason among reichswehr troops on behalf of fascists and sentenced to 18 months military imprisonment each by the supreme court today.

Scheringer and Ludin were expelled from the army. The court decided to deduct six months and three weeks from the terms of detention because of time spent in a fortress.

Scheringer was acquitted of a subordinate charge of violating the military rules by publishing a newspaper on behalf of the fascists, but this did not affect the sentence passed upon him for inciting treason.

The trial created great interest in Germany because it afforded Adolf Hitler, leader of the German fascists, an opportunity to take the witness stand and outline the radical ideals of his party. The state's attorney at one time indicated that Hitler might be tried on charges of treason, but later qualified his statement by saying that it was uncertain whether charges against Hitler would be heard.

GABBY STREET'S MEN BRACE UP HOME TOWN

WALBERG RELIEVED LATER BY SHORES, UNABLE TO STEM BATTING TIDE

SHUT OUT SCORE SATISFIED THE HORDES OF FANS AT ST. LOUIS TODAY

The St. Louis Cardinals braced up in their home town today and satisfied the St. Louis fans by shutting out the Philadelphia Athletics 5 to 0 in the third game of the world series, the Mackmen having taken the previous two at Philadelphia.

The Cards had a total of ten hits to the Athletics' seven.

Walberg, relieved later by Shores, represented the hurling staff of the Athletics which could not stem the tide of Card batting.

Sportsman's Park, St. Louis, Oct. 4.

(U.P.)—The St. Louis Cardinals were out to win today and avert a rout. They showed it in every move as they took the field for practice in Sportsman's Park before the third game of the 1930 world series.

Bright sunshine, mid-summer weather and a riotously noisy crowd at their backs, with occasional wild rebel yells punctuating the steady tumult in the bleachers, gave the National League champions every chance to win this game from the confident Philadelphia Athletics.

Having won the first two games, the American League champions looked forward to a sweep of this series and their fifth world's championship.

The Cardinals were in home town fit this afternoon when they emerged from their dugout two hours before game time and began to toss around a dozen baseballs. The appearance of even some eligible substitutes was greeted by a roar of greeting from the husky throats of the bleachers in contrast to the fans in Shibe Park earlier in the week.

This St. Louis crowd, however discouraged by the failure of their favorites in the first two games, wanted a win today and was prepared to do its part. Cow bells jingled, horns tooted and whoops of sincere applause marked the appearance of the Cards' regulars for batting practice.

The batteries for the third game were announced as:

Philadelphia — Walberg and Cochrane.

St. Louis — Hallahan and Wilson.

The line-up: Athletics — Bishop, 2b; Dykes, 3b; Cochrane, c; Simmons, 1b; Fox, 1b; Miller, rf; Haas, cf; Boley, ss; Walberg, p.

Cardinals — Douthitt, cf; Adams, 3b; Frisch, 2b; Bottomley, 1b; Hafey, lf; Blades, rf; Wilson, c; Geibert, ss; Hallahan, p.

Umpires — At plate, Geisel; first base, Reardon; second base, Moriarty; third base, Rigler.

A duel of left handed men was on tap if neither manager changed his mind before game time, a privilege which Connie Mack always reserves for himself.

Gabby Street gambled on his one good stopwatch to stop the American League champions, while Mack figured that the Cardinals were easy for a port side and decided to use the veteran Walberg and hold Grove in reserve.

Jimmy Wilson, who had been out of the line-up with an injured ankle sustained in the last series at the Polo Grounds, was slated to catch.

When the A's replaced the Cards for batting practice there was a noticeable increase in interest, the crowd now numbering at least 25,000.

St. Louis had a great contingent of women fans. Approximately one-fourth of the grand stand were women, who had a chance to show their pretty dresses in the warm sunshine.

The crowd was estimated at 30,000 a half hour before the game started. Walberg was warming up before the game. There was no doubt of the Cards' pitcher as Bill Hallahan got steam up.

The band played the national anthem.

Before the game started Gabby Street, manager of the Cards, was presented with a giant floral horseshoe, and had written on it: "Good luck, Gabby."

Connie Mack kept Ed Rommel, veteran right hander, warming up alongside of Walberg.

Mack sent Bill Shores, young right hander, into the bull pen to start warming up, making his pitching plans still more uncertain.

Walberg, however, seemed to be the choice as he was bearing down harder than Rommel or Shores. Walberg was officially announced as the Athletics' starting pitcher.

The umpires cleared the field of all photographers and the Cards took their positions to start the game.

Umpire Geisel gave the ball to Mayor Victor Miller and he took his place on the pitching mound and threw two balls to Catcher Wilson.

Hallahan took the ball and began to warm up.

Umpire Geisel called the game at 1:34 P. M.

4 MEN CONFESS KILLING 3 YEAR GARLAN BAILEY

BODY FOUND ON ISLAND, OHIO
RIVER, NEAR NEW MARTINS-
VILLE, W. VA.

BOY'S MOTHER, EVA BAILEY, 40,
IMPLICATED IN THE CON-FESSION

New Martinsville, W. Va., Oct. 4.—
UP—Four men, one of them a government worker, assertedly confessed to police today to the killing of three-year-old Garlan Bailey, whose body was found on Grandview Island in the Ohio river early Monday morning.

The boy's mother, Eva Bailey, 40, was implicated in the confession.

Terminating an all night period of questioning, Ray Henry, light tender on the island for the government; his brother, Charles, and Clyde McBee and James Dunn, both of Grandview, Ohio, signed confessions admitting the killing, police said.

The confession was a cold-blooded story of how the four men and the woman, who was divorced from Garlan's father, took the child to the island last Sunday afternoon during a drinking party, and decided to "get rid of the kid."

The men took the screaming child in their hands and twisted the body until it was lifeless. They then sought to tear it apart by sheer force, police said the confession stated, but after failing the body was thrown into the river, later drifting back to shore.

The four men declared that after disposing of the body, they and the child's mother returned to Henry's house and played the radio for the rest of the night.

WRIGHT DENIES THAT HE KILLED CLINTON G. PRICE

BRINGS NEAR A CLOSE TRIAL
ON CHARGE OF FIRST DEGREE MURDER

STATE AT MAUSTON, WIS., BE-GINS PRESENTING RE-BUTTAL EVIDENCE

Mauston, Wis., Oct. 4.—UP—Lysil
T. Wright's denial that he killed Dist.
Atty. Clinton G. Price, today brought near a close his trial on a charge of first degree murder.

The defense rested its case at 10:30
A. M. and the state began presentation of rebuttal evidence with the hope of giving the case to the jury
by night.

Defense counsel drew from Wright
the story of his adventurous life leading up to the denial that he fired a shotgun through the rear screen door of the Price home and mortally wounded the district attorney who had caused his downfall as sheriff.

Gassed and wounded in the World war when only 18 years old the "boy sheriff" of Juneau county at 26, involved with makers of illicit liquor and removed from office by the governor three days before concluding his term in office, and finally arrested on a charge of slaying Price were among the experiences which Wright detailed.

"Did you shoot Clinton G. Price on the night of April 13 of this year?"
asked Lawrence Brody, defense counsel after Wright had related the story of his life.

"I did not," the defendant replied.

DEATH DRIVERS

These two Chicago women, Mrs. Blanche Kent (center) and Mrs. Leona Dorsett (right), were held to the grand jury on charges of manslaughter as the result of an automobile accident Sunday when the car they were driving struck and killed two brothers at Westmont, Ill. Both were under the influence of liquor at the time of the accident, witnesses and police testified at the inquest in Westmont. They are shown here as Police Chief Bientema of Westmont questioned them after the accident.

A BIG DAY IN LIFE OF LITTLE GIRL

September 30 was a most eventful day in the life of little Paulina Longworth, for on that day her distinguished parents, Speaker of the House Nicholas Longworth and the former Alice Roosevelt, enrolled Paulina in the Latspeich private school in Cincinnati. The picture, taken with the permission of Paulina's parents, shows her in the classroom with several of her schoolmates. Paulina obliged the photographer by looking straight into the camera.

"Do you know who shot him?"
Brody continued.

"I haven't had a chance to find out.
I've been in jail ever since," Wright said, who is now in the custody of federal officers while attending his own trial because he is serving an eight months sentence for conspiracy to violate the federal prohibition laws.

Wright insisted that he and Price were friends and denied making threats against the district attorney as other witnesses had testified. Brody asked him about the raid Price led on the Kilbourn stills, which disclosed that the sheriff was involved with the operators and his subsequent remarks to Price.

"I asked Price what he had done
this thing for when he was in with the boys and was taking their money," the witness replied. "He told me he had to make the raid; that a man from Washington was in the county and that he got scared."

Asked again if he threatened Price after the raid, Wright said, "No, we shook hands before we parted."

The Shenandoah valley is one of the most historic in the nation. During the Civil war it was known as the

with battlefields, with which are linked

Mauston, Wis., Oct. 4.—(UP)—Lysell T. Wright's denial that he killed Dist. Atty. Clinton G. Price, today brought near a close his trial on a charge of first degree murder.

The defense rested its case at 10:30 A. M. and the state began presentation of rebuttal evidence with the hope of giving the case to the jury by night.

Defense counsel drew from Wright the story of his adventurous life leading up to the denial that he fired a shotgun through the rear screen door of the Price home and mortally wounded the district attorney who had caused his downfall as sheriff.

Gassed and wounded in the World war when only 18 years old the "boy sheriff" of Juneau county at 26, involved with makers of illicit liquor and removed from office by the governor three days before concluding his term in office, and finally arrested on a charge of slaying Price were among the experiences which Wright detailed.

"Did you shoot Clinton G. Price on the night of April 13 of this year?" asked Lawrence Brody, defense counsel after Wright had related the story of his life.

"I did not," the defendant replied.

DEATH DRIVERS

These two Chicago women, Mrs. Blanche Kent (center) and Mrs. Leona Dorsett (right), were held to the grand jury on charges of manslaughter as the result of an automobile accident Sunday when the car they were driving struck and killed two brothers at Westmont, Ill. Both were under the influence of liquor at the time of the accident, witnesses and police testified at the inquest in Westmont. They are shown here as Police Chief Bientema of Westmont questioned them after the accident.

A BIG DAY IN LIFE OF LITTLE GIRL

September 30 was a most eventful day in the life of little Paulina Longworth, for on that day her distinguished parents, Speaker of the House Nicholas Longworth and the former Alice Roosevelt, enrolled Paulina in the Latspeich private school in Cincinnati. The picture, taken with the permission of Paulina's parents, shows her in the classroom with several of her schoolmates. Paulina obliged the photographer by looking straight into the camera.

"Do you know who shot him?" Brody continued.

"I haven't had a chance to find out. I've been in jail ever since," Wright said, who is now in the custody of federal officers while attending his own trial because he is serving an eight months sentence for conspiracy to violate the federal prohibition laws.

Wright insisted that he and Price were friends and denied making threats against the district attorney as other witnesses had testified. Brody asked him about the raid Price led on the Kilbourn stills, which disclosed that the sheriff was involved with the operators and his subsequent remarks to Price.

"I asked Price what he had done this thing for when he was in with the boys and was taking their money," the witness replied. "He told me he had to make the raid; that a man from Washington was in the county and that he got scared."

Asked again if he threatened Price after the raid, Wright said, "No, we shook hands before we parted."

Historic Valley

The Shenandoah valley is one of the most historic in the nation. During the Civil war it was known as the "Granary of the Confederacy," and today it is a great orchard and small-crop area. Its entire length is dotted with battlefields, with which are linked the names of men known to United States military history.

Filene Defends Mass Production

THOSE critics who fear that mass production will unduly standardize human lives, miss the whole point of the modern economic order, says Edward A. Filene, Boston merchant-economist.

"Poverty is the only thing that can standardize people," he writes in the October Rotarian Magazine. "Where people must live on a few cents a day, they can have no choice as to how they shall live. With poverty abolished, as only mass production can abolish it, they may be as diverse as their opinions indicate."

Poverty will not be abolished in a year, nor by miracles, Mr. Filene asserts; but as the implications of the mass production are gradually worked out, what were once luxuries will be put within the reach of the poor.

"Mass production means mass distribution and this," says Mr. Filene, "cannot go on without mass buying. . . . This involves financing of consumption. It was no accident that Ford, who first taught us the value of low prices, should also have taught us the necessity for high wages. As mass production advances, wages must go up and up."

"Thirty years ago the automobile was the emblem of plutocracy. Today, the automobile is the transportation system of the public generally. To manufacture for the masses necessitates not the organization of a giant merger, nor the covering of square miles of territory with cogs and belts. The first thing that mass production involves is the setting of a price which great masses of people can pay. When that is done, all the rest follows."

Mass production also inevitably means more leisure time, Mr. Filene believes.

"When people worked sixteen hours a day, they could not have spent very much even if they had the money, for they could not want very much in the eight hours left to them, excepting sleep and, perhaps, dissipation. With sixteen hours to themselves, however, they have learned to want much."

Guiding Athletics

CONNIE MACK, sitting sphinx-like on the bench, is the guiding spirit of the Athletics. He is the master hand in strategy and even keeps his own team guessing when it comes to choice of pitching material.

Big league baseball differs as much from the sand lot variety as day from night. The game in the big leagues is directed according to a plan of offense. Pitchers are even told what balls to pitch before they go in and the field is lined to receive the ball should it be batted out.

Les Bush often remarked that in the old town ball games a pitcher was often relied upon to win the game, whereas in real play the pitcher is important, of course, but there are also eight other players with their duties to perform.

Public Spirit Shown

PUBLIC spirit in Brainerd is rising to greater heights and people out of town vie with those here to do something which shall benefit Brainerd.

At Gregory Park one sees the beautiful entrance presented to the city by Con O'Brien and which is illuminated with floodlights so that it may be seen at any time.

The Park Board plans the erection of a comfort station in Lum park and Dr. and Mrs. C. E. Lum of Duluth have donated $500 to this most worthy cause.

It is this splendid spirit now animating many citizens and friends of Brainerd which makes this town distinctive in a way. It follows the commendable plan of Brainerd high school classes leaving memorials to the school.

No Diogenes Needed

It requires no Diogenes with his lantern to find honest persons in Brainerd. It is exemplified every day in the responses made to lost ads published in the Brainerd Dispatch.

Here is a sample. James McGivern lost a roll of $42 in bills, four tens and two ones, not even tied by a rubber band. The same evening the paper appeared came a telephone response that a girl had found the money and wished him to call for it, which he did very gladly.

Frequently $5 bills have been found and returned to their respective owners through the medium of the effective little Dispatch want ad.

Let's Find Out Who is Guilty or Not Guilty

THE charges of fraud in connection with certain road and bridge work done in Crow Wing county as revealed by the county attorney in the arrest of A. B. Peterson, warrants a thorough investigation of the department involved.

County Attorney Sullivan is to be commended for making an undercover investigation and bringing the facts to light, and with the assistance of the public examiners, now working on the case, a thorough and continued investigation should be made to the end that that department of the county government be cleaned up and the innocent ones under suspicion absolved of blame and the guilty ones found out and properly punished.

CHAPTER XXXVI.

DAN'L was already half way down the ladder; but even before his sulphur match scratched, Brander's nostrils told him what had happened. They brought him a smell; unmistakable, appalling—the smell of blood!

He was on his knees beside Slatter's body when Dan'l bent over him with the flickering match. They saw Slatter doubled forward over his own legs.

"I had a full Nelson," Brander explained swiftly. "I was forcing him over that way when he yelled."

He lifted Slatter's body; and they saw the hilt of a knife that was stuck downward, deep into his right thigh.

"You've killed him!" Dan'l cried.

And Mauger interrupted loyally: "No! He didn't."

Dan'l looked at the one-eyed man.

"How do you know?"

"I did. I stuck the knife in him."

Brander looked at Mauger, and he touched the little man's shoulder.

"You're mistaken, little friend," he said, and smiled. He turned to Dan'l.

"I bit the knife out of Slatter's hand," he said. "It fell against my chest and slid down. It must have dropped between his body and his legs; and his own body, bending forward, drove it in."

Dan'l smiled unpleasantly.

"All right, but Mauger says he did it."

Brander shook his head.

"He didn't—for a good reason. He was flat on the floor, and I was kneeling on his back, between him and Slatter, when Slatter yelled and quit fighting."

Dan'l groped for the whale-oil lamp, lighted it, and bent to look at the knife.

"How did it kill him, there?" he demanded.

"It must have struck the big thigh artery," said Brander.

Noll Wing's voice came down to them from the scuttle. "What's wrong, below?"

And his big bulk slid down the ladder.

Dan'l and Noll and Faith talked the affair over between them in the after cabin the next morning.

Faith had slept through the disturbance of the night before, but when she heard of it, on waking, it absorbed her. She went on deck, found Brander, and made him tell her what had happened.

He described the outbreak in the fo'c'sle. He told how, when he went forward, he smelled liquor on the men; how he dropped through the fo'c'sle scuttle, and someone knocked the lamp from its hanging and Slatter rushed him.

"Mauger saw what the man meant," he said. "He jumped on him from the side, and then I took a hand. We had it for a while, in a heap on the floor."

"The other men in the fo'c'sle had fled to the deck, leaving Slatter to do his work."

"I made him let go of the knife," Brander explained. "After we had banged around for a while, I got him from behind, my arms under his, my hands clasped behind his neck. I bent him over, forward. He was trying to get hold of my throat, over his shoulder; but he yelled and let go."

Faith's eyes were troubled.

"You say the men had been drinking?"

"Yes."

"Where did they get it?"

Brander shook his head; he wanted for her to speak.

"Let me talk to Mauger," she said.

He sent the one-eyed man to her and took himself away. Mauger told his story volubly. The little man had added a cubit to his stature by his exploit; he had done heroically, and knew it, and was proud. He told, straightforwardly, how Brander dropped down into the fo'c'sle.

"Slatter had fixed it with a man to knock out the light," he explained. "I heard them whispering. I was watching. I saw Slatter had a knife; so when he jumped for Mr. Brander, I tripped him and he fell over me, and then Mr. Brander grabbed him." The little man chuckled at the joke on himself. "They fit all over me, ma'am," he said. "They done a double shuffle up and down my backbone, right?"

Faith smiled at him, and told him he had done well.

"But where did the men get liquor?" she asked.

"I dunno, ma'am. Did they have any?"

"Mauger," she said steadily, "where did the men get the liquor?"

The man squirmed, but he stood still under her eyes. He tried to avoid her; but in the end he came nearer, looking backward and from side to side—came nearer, and whispered at last:

"Slatter brought a jug forward after his go at the wheel, ma'am."

"Slatter?" Faith echoed softly.

"Slatter? All right, Mauger. And—don't talk 'oo much forward."

The man escaped eagerly. He had been willing enough to talk about Slatter's knife and his own good deed; but this other was another matter. Whisky in the fo'c'sle!

This was in the early morning, before the whole story had spread to every man. Faith went quickly below, asked his keys from Noll, and went into the storeroom. She found nothing there to guide her; but while she was in the room, Tinch, the cook, came down to get coffee. She studied the man.

"Tinch," she said, a finger pressing her cheek, "I left a jug down here. It's gone. Have you seen it anywhere?"

Tinch, a tall, lean man with a bald head, looked at her stupidly, ran a thin finger through his straggly locks, and thought.

"Wa'al, now, ma'am," he said at last, "I rec'lect I see Roy fetch a jug up out o' her, yist-day."

"Roy?" she asked. "What was he down here for?"

"Come down to—" He looked at her, and was suddenly confused with fear he had played Judas.

"Wa'al, now, ma'am," he drawled, "I callate you'd best ask the boy that there."

She nodded at once.

"Of course! Thank you, Tinch."

So Faith had this matter in her mind when Dan'l came down to find Noll, in mid-morning, and ask what was to be done about the tragedy.

"Slatter over on th' side, Mr. Tobey," Noll said fretfully. "Do I have to look after everything about this ship?"

"Hitch is fixing for that," Dan'l said.

"What I mean is, how about Mauger? He says he done it."

"Well, if he says he done it, he done it," Noll said sullenly.

"That's what I say," Dan'l agreed. "Only thing is, Brander stands up for him. So what do you aim to do?"

"Brander stands up for him?"

"Says he couldn't ha' done it, anyways."

Noll threw up his fist angrily.

"Damn it, Mr. Tobey, don't run to me with this. Find out what happened—then tell me. That's the thing. My God, this ship is—Mr. Tobey, be a man!"

"All right!" Dan'l said steadily. "I say Mauger did it."

Noll's cheeks turned pale and his eyes narrowed on the mate.

"Stuck the knife in him?"

"Yes."

"How did he know to stick it in the man's leg so neat? Most men would ha' struck for the back. The man knows the use of a knife, Mr. Tobey."

Dan'l nodded.

"Oh, aye!"

Noll looked furtively toward the door.

"I've allus said he'd a knife for me. He'll be on my back one day!"

He was trembling and he noured

a drink and swallowed it. Faith, sitting near him, looked up, looked at Dan'l, then bent her head over her book again.

"I'm thinking it's wise to put him in irons," Dan'l suggested.

"Then do it, Mr. Tobey," Noll roared. "Don't come whining to me w' your little matters. Settle such unbusinesslike business of a mate, Mr. Tobey."

"Why make so much talk?" Faith said quietly, without looking up. "Mr. Brander has explained what happened."

The men were silent for an instant, surprised and uneasy. Dan'l looked at the captain; Noll's head was bent.

"You think Mr. Brander is right?" Dan'l ventured to say.

"Of course."

"You—think he's telling the truth?"

"Anyone can see that."

Dan'l laughed mirthlessly.

"Then we'd best write—we'd best let Mr. Brander write his story in the log, sir."

Faith looked at Dan'l steadily; then she turned to her husband.

"Noll," she said, "you write the log. I'll tell you what to write."

He eyed her stupidly, not understanding. She got up and opened the log-book and gave him a pen. He protested:

"Faith, wait—"

She touched his shoulder lightly with her hand, silencing him.

"Write this," she said; and when Noll took the pen, she dictated:

"Some one gave the men liquor this day; they were drinking in the fo'c'sle. When Mr. Brander went forward to quiet them—" She saw Noll had fallen behind with his writing, and waited a moment, then repeated more slowly: "When Mr. Brander went forward to quiet them, Slatter attacked him with a knife. In the struggle Slatter dropped the knife, and a moment later fell on it, dying from the wound."

She repeated the last sentence a second time, so that Noll got it word for word; and then she took the log from him, and blotted it, and put it away.

"Aren't you saying anything about Mauger?" Dan'l Tobey protested.

Faith smiled quietly.

"Thank you for reminding me."

She opened the log again, bade Noll write, and said slowly: "The man Mauger saved Mr. Brander's life by tripping Slatter as he charged."

Dan'l grimaced as she finished.

"Now," said Faith, "Slatter was not important, at least he is no longer important. But there is one thing, Noll, that you must stop—the whisky that went forward."

Noll looked at her dully, frowning, as if he sought to understand.

"The whisky was in the fo'c'sle, it was probably Slatter stole it," Dan'l said. "The men say so."

"He took it forward," Faith agreed; "but he did not get it from the stores. He could not."

She hesitated, her lips white; then she set them firmly. "Dan'l, fetch Roy here," she said.

Dan'l was so surprised that for an instant he did not stir.

"Roy?" he repeated. "What's he?"

Faith looked to her husband.

"Will you tell him to bring Roy?" she asked.

"What's the boy—" Noll asked heavily. "Go along, Dan'l. Fetch him."

Dan'l got up at once and went out, closing the door behind him. They heard him go on deck. A minute later, he was back with Roy at his heels and Faith saw her brother's face was white.

"Roy, why did you steal a jug of whisky from the stores?" she asked.

"That's a lie!" Roy cried on the instant.

Faith studied him. He expected accusation, questioning. Instead, she nodded.

"All right."

Submitted by the Legislature at its General Session, 1929, to the People of Minnesota at the General 1930 Election Together with Statements of

Purpose and Effect of each

Prepared by

Attorney-General of Minnesota.

Addressed to

Secretary of State.

STATE OF MINNESOTA,
LEGAL DEPARTMENT,
HENRY N. BENSON,
Attorney General.

St. Paul, Minnesota, February 27, 1930.

HONORABLE MIKE HOLM,
Secretary of State:

In compliance with the provisions of section 46, General Statutes, 1929, I furnish you herewith a statement of the purpose and effect of proposed amendments to the constitution of the state of Minnesota which are to be submitted to the electors of the state at the general election in 1930, in accordance with certain acts adopted by the legislature at the 1929 session thereof.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT NO. 1.

By the adoption of Chapter 429, Laws 1929, the legislature has proposed an amendment to section 3 of article 10 of the constitution relating to corporations.

This section now reads as follows:

"Each stockholder in any corporation, excepting those organized for the purpose of carrying on any kind of manufacturing or mechanical business, shall be liable to the full amount of stock held or owned by him."

If amended as proposed, this section will read as follows:

"The legislature shall have power from time to time to provide by law, and otherwise regulate the liability of stockholders or members of corporations or associations, however organized. Provided every stockholder in a banking or trust corporation shall be liable to the full amount of stock owned by him for all debts of such corporation contracted prior to any transfer of such stock and such individual liability shall continue for one year after any transfer of such stock and the entry thereof on the books of the corporation or association."

The Purpose of the Proposed Amendment:

The Constitution, as it now stands, makes every stockholder in any corporation, excepting those organized for the purpose of carrying on any kind of manufacturing or mechanical business, liable for the debts of the corporation, if the corporate assets are insufficient to pay the debts, up to an amount equal to the par value of the stock held or owned by him, in addition to any sum that he may owe the corporation on account of his stock.

The purpose of the proposed amendment is to authorize the legislature to prescribe and regulate by law the liability of stockholders in all corporations, co-operative corporations or associations, however organized, except stockholders in banking or trust corporations or associations.

The Effect of the Proposed Amendment:

The effect of the proposed amendment, if adopted, will be to abrogate, under such conditions and regulations as the legislature may prescribe and to the extent necessary to effectuate exchanges of state, school and swamp lands for lands owned by the federal government, the rule requiring the disposal of school and swamp lands only by public sale. Such abrogation and the consequent provision for exchanges of lands in pursuance of legislative enactment authorized by the proposed amendment will not impair or diminish the trust funds of the state arising from the sale of school and swamp lands, since the proceeds of sales of federal lands so acquired by exchanges must, under the proposed amendment, be deposited to the credit of such trust funds.

The ballot used at the election should have printed thereon the following:

Third:

EXCHANGE OF STATE AND FEDERAL LANDS.

Amendment of Article 8 of the Constitution, authorizing the exchange of public lands of the state for lands of the United States, as the legislature may provide.

YES.....
NO.....

HENRY N. BENSON,
Attorney General.

Scholarship Exalted

SCHOLARSHIP, and not the more noisy and picturesque distractions of campus or sports, is the ideal of the University of Minnesota. Dr. Lotus D. Coffman, president, told the freshmen of that institution Thursday. His assurance was given in his address to the newcomers in Northrop Memorial auditorium.

"The university exalts beyond everything else the student and his scholarship," he said.

"It pays high tribute and it acknowledges its debt to creative work in the intellectual realms in every possible way upon every possible occasion."

THE ROMANCE OF AN EVENTFUL WHALING CRUISE

CHAPTER XXXVI.

DAN'L was already half way down the ladder; but even before his sulphur match scratched, Brander's nostrils told him what had happened. They brought him a smell; unmistakable, appalling—the smell of blood!

He was on his knees beside Slatter's body when Dan'l bent over him with the flickering match. They saw Slatter doubled forward over his own legs.

"I had a full Nelson," Brander explained swiftly. "I was forcing him over that way when he yelled."

He lifted Slatter's body; and they saw the hilt of a knife that was stuck downward, deep into his right thigh.

"You've killed him!" Dan'l cried.

And Mauger interrupted loyally: "No! He didn't."

Dan'l looked at the one-eyed man.

"How do you know?"

"I did. I stuck the knife in him."

Brander looked at Mauger, and he touched the little man's shoulder.

"You're mistaken, little friend," he said, and smiled. He turned to Dan'l.

"I bit the knife out of Slatter's hand," he said. "It fell against my chest and slid down. It must have dropped between his body and his legs; and his own body, bending forward, drove it in."

Dan'l smiled unpleasantly.

"All right, but Mauger says he did it."

Brander shook his head.

"He didn't—for a good reason. He was flat on the floor, and I was kneeling on his back, between him and Slatter, when Slatter yelled and quit fighting."

Dan'l groped for the whale-oil lamp, lighted it, and bent to look at the knife.

"How did it kill him, there?" he demanded.

"It must have struck the big thigh artery," said Brander.

Noll Wing's voice came down to them from the scuttle. "What's wrong, below?"

And his big bulk slid down the ladder.

Dan'l and Noll and Faith talked the affair over between them in the after cabin the next morning.

Faith had slept through the disturbance of the night before, but when she heard of it, on waking, it absorbed her. She went on deck, found Brander, and made him tell her what had happened.

He described the outbreak in the fo'c'sle. He told how, when he went forward, he smelled liquor on the men; how he dropped through the fo'c'sle scuttle, and someone knocked the lamp from its hanging and Slatter rushed him.

"Mauger saw what the man meant," he said. "He jumped on him from the side, and then I took a hand. We had it for a while, in a heap on the floor."

"The other men in the fo'c'sle had fled to the deck, leaving Slatter to do his work."

"I made him let go of the knife," Brander explained. "After we had banged around for a while, I got him from behind, my arms under his neck. I bent him over, forward. He was trying to get hold of my throat, over his shoulder; but he yelled and let go."

Faith's eyes were troubled.

"You say the men had been drinking?"

"Yes."

"Where did they get it?"

Brander shook his head; he waited for her to speak.

"Let me talk to Mauger," she said.

He sent the one-eyed man to her and took himself away. Mauger told his story volubly. The little man had added a cubit to his stature by his exploit; he had done heroically, and knew it, and was proud. He told, straightforwardly, how Brander dropped down into the fo'c'sle.

"Slatter had fixed it with a man to knock out the light," he explained. "I heard them whispering. I was watching. I saw Slatter had a knife; so when he jumped for Mr. Brander, I tripped him and he fell over me, and then Mr. Brander grabbed him." The little man chuckled at the joke on himself. "They fit all over me, ma'am," he said. "They done a double shuffle up and down my backbone, right?"

Faith smiled at him, and told him he had done well.

"But where did the men get liquor?" she asked.

"I dunno, ma'am. Did they have any?"

"Mauger," she said steadily, "where did the men get the liquor?"

The man squirmed, but he stood still under her eyes. He tried to avoid her; but in the end he came nearer, looking backward and from side to side—came nearer, and whispered at last:

"Slatter brought a jug forward after his go at the wheel, ma'am."

"Slatter?" Faith echoed softly.

"Slatter? All right, Mauger. And—don't talk 'oo much forward."

The man escaped eagerly. He had been willing enough to talk about Slatter's knife and his own good deed; but this other was another matter. Whisky in the fo'c'sle—

This was in the early morning, before the whole story had spread to every man. Faith went quickly below, asked his keys from Noll, and went into the storeroom. She found nothing there to guide her; it while she was in the room, Tinch, the cook, came down to get coffee. She studied the man.

"Tinch," she said, a finger pressing her cheek, "I left a jug down here. It's gone. Have you seen it anywhere?"

Tinch, a tall, lean man with a bald head, looked at her stupidly, ran a thin finger through his straggly locks, and thought.

"Wa'al, now, ma'am," he said at last, "I recollect I see Roy fetch a jug up out o' her, yist-day."

"Roy?" she asked. "What was he down here for?"

"Come down to—" He looked at her, and was suddenly confused with fear he had played Judas.

"Wa'al, now, ma'am," he drawled, "I cal'late you'd best ask the boy that there."

She nodded at once.

"Of course! Thank you, Tinch." So Faith had this matter in her mind when Dan'l came down to find Noll, in mid-morning, and ask what was to be done about the tragedy.

"Slide Slatter over th' side, Mr. Tobey," Noll said fretfully. "Do I have to look after everything aboard this ship?"

"Hitch is fixing for that," Dan'l said.

"What I mean is, how about Mauger? He says he done it."

"Well, if he says he done it, he done it," Noll said sullenly.

"That's what I say," Dan'l agreed. "Only thing is, Brander stands up for him. So what do you aim t' do?"

"Brander stands up for him?"

"Says he couldn't ha' done it, anyways."

Noll threw up his fist angrily.

"Damn it, Mr. Tobey, don't run to me with this. Find out what happened—then tell me. That's the thing. My God, this ship is—Mr. Tobey, be a man!"

"All right!" Dan'l said steadily. "I say Mauger did it."

Noll's cheeks turned pale and his eyes narrowed on the mate.

"Stuck the knife in him?"

"Yes."

"How did he know to stick it in the man's leg so neat? Most men would ha' struck for the back. The man knows the use of a knife, Mr. Tobey."

Dan'l nodded.

"Oh, aye!"

Noll looked furtively toward the door.

"I've allus said he'd a knife for me. He'll be on my back one day!"

He was trembling and he poured

a drink and swallowed it. Faith, sitting near him, looked up, looked at Dan'l, then bent her head over her book again.

"I'm thinking it wise to put him in irons," Dan'l suggested.

"Then do it, Mr. Tobey," Noll roared. "Don't come whining to me with your little matters. Settle such talkers. That's the business of a mate, Mr. Tobey."

"Why make so much talk?" Faith said quietly, without looking up. "Mr. Brander has explained what happened."

The men were silent for an instant, surprised and uneasy. Dan'l looked at the captain; Noll's head was bent.

"You think Mr. Brander is right?" Dan'l ventured to say.

"Of course."

"You—think he's telling the truth?"

"Anyone can see that."

Then we'd best write—we'd best let Mr. Brander write his story in the log, sir."

Faith looked at Dan'l steadily; then she turned to her husband.

"Noll," she said, "you write the log. I'll tell you what to write."

He eyed her stupidly, not understanding. She got up and opened the log-book and gave him a pen. He protested:

"Faith, wait—"

She touched his shoulder lightly with her hand, silencing him.

"Write this," she said; and when Noll took the pen, she dictated:

"Some one gave the men liquor this day; they were drinking in the fo'c'sle. When Mr. Brander went forward to quit, them—"

He saw Noll had fallen behind with his writing, and waited a moment, then repeated more slowly: "When Mr. Brander went forward to quit them, Slatter attacked him with a knife. In the struggle Slatter dropped the knife, and a moment later fell on it, dying from the wound."

She repeated the last sentence a second time, so that Noll got it word for word; and then she took the log from him, and blotted it, and put it away.

"Aren't you saying anything about Mauger?" Dan'l Tobey protested.

Faith smiled quietly.

"Thank you for reminding me."

She opened the log again, bade Noll write, and said slowly: "The man Mauger saved Mr. Brander's life by tripping Slatter as he charged."

Dan'l grimaced as she finished.

"Now," said Faith, "Slatter was not important, at least he is no longer important. But there is one thing, Noll, that you must stop—the whisky that went forward."

Noll looked at her dully, frowning, as if he sought to understand.

"It was probably Slatter stole it," Dan'l said. "The men say so."

"He took it forward," Faith agreed; "but he did not get it from the stores. He could not."

She hesitated, her lips white; then she set them firmly. "Dan'l, fetch Roy here," she said.

Dan'l was so surprised that for an instant he did not stir.

"Roy?" he repeated. "What's he—"

Faith looked to her husband.

"Will you tell him to bring Roy?" she asked.

"What's the boy—" Noll asked heavily. "Go along, Dan'l. Fetch him."

Dan'l got up at once and went out, closing the door behind him. They heard him go on deck. A minute later, he was back with Roy at his heels and Faith saw her brother's face was white.

"Roy, why did you steal a jug of whisky from the stores?" she asked.

"That's a lie!" Roy cried on the instant.

Faith studied him. He expected accusation, questioning. Instead, she nodded.

"All right."

Proposed Amendments to the Constitution of the State of Minnesota

Submitted by the Legislature at its General Session, 1929, to the People of Minnesota at the General 1930 Election Together with Statements of Purpose and Effect of each

Prepared by
HENRY N. BENSON
Attorney-General of Minnesota.

Addressed to
MIKE HOLM
Secretary of State.

STATE OF MINNESOTA,
LEGAL DEPARTMENT.
HENRY N. BENSON,
Attorney General.

St. Paul, Minnesota, February 27, 1930.

HONORABLE MIKE HOLM,
Secretary of State:

In compliance with the provisions of section 44, General Statutes, 1929, I furnish you herewith a statement of the purpose and effect of proposed amendments to the constitution of the state of Minnesota which are to be submitted to the electors of the state at the general election in 1930, in accordance with certain acts adopted by the legislature at the 1929 session thereof.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT NO. 1.

By the adoption of Chapter 429, Laws 1929, the legislature has proposed an amendment to section 3 of article 10 of the constitution relating to corporations. This section now reads as follows:

"Each stockholder of any corporation, excepting those organized for the purpose of carrying on any kind of manufacturing or mechanical business, shall be liable to the amount of stock held or owned by him."

If amended as proposed, this section will read as follows:

"The legislature shall have power from time to time to provide for the limitation of the liability of stockholders of corporations for the debts of the corporation, excepting those organized for the purpose of carrying on any kind of manufacturing or mechanical business, liable for the debts of the corporation, if the corporate assets are insufficient to pay the debts, up to an amount equal to the par value of the stock held or owned by him, in addition to any sum that he may owe the corporation in respect of stock. The purpose of the proposed amendment is to authorize the legislature to prescribe and limit the liability of stockholders of corporations or members in all corporations including co-operative corporations or associations, however organized, except stockholders in banking or trust corporations or associations."

The Purpose of the Proposed Amendment:

The Constitution, as it now stands, makes every stockholder in any corporation, excepting those organized for the purpose of carrying on any kind of manufacturing or mechanical business, liable for the debts of the corporation, if the corporate assets are insufficient to pay the debts, up to an amount equal to the par value of the stock held or owned by him, in addition to any sum that he may owe the corporation in respect of stock. The purpose of the proposed amendment is to authorize the legislature to prescribe and limit the liability of stockholders of corporations or members in all corporations including co-operative corporations or associations, however organized, except stockholders in banking or trust corporations or associations.

The Effect of the Proposed Amendment:

If adopted, will be to abrogate the present fixed rule of stockholders' liability prescribed by the constitution, in the case of stockholders in banks or trust companies, and to place the matter of prescribing and regulating the liability of stockholders in banking or trust corporations or associations, however organized, except stockholders in banking or trust corporations or associations, entirely within the control of the legislature, subject to change from time to time as the legislature may see fit.

Stockholders in banking or trust corporations or associations will remain, as they now are, liable in an amount equal to the amount of stock owned by them. The ballot used at the election should have printed thereon the following:

First:
LIABILITY OF STOCKHOLDERS IN CORPORATIONS.

Amendment to Section 3, Article 10, of the Constitution authorizing the legislature from time to time to provide for the limitation of the liability of stockholders in corporations.

YES.....
NO.....

PROPOSED AMENDMENT NO. 2.

By the adoption of Chapter 430, Laws 1929, the legislature has proposed an amendment to section 2, article 6, of the Constitution, relating to the supreme court. This section now reads as follows:

"The supreme court shall consist of one chief justice and two associate justices, but the number of associate justices may be increased to a number not exceeding four, by the legislature, by a two-thirds vote, when it shall be deemed necessary. It shall have original jurisdiction in all cases, both in law and equity, and there shall be no trial by jury in said court. It shall hold one or more terms in each year, as the legislature may direct, at the seat of government, and the legislature may provide, by a two-thirds vote, that one term in each year shall be held in each or any judicial district. It shall be the duty of such court to appoint a reporter of its decisions. There shall be chosen, by the qualified electors of the state, one clerk of the supreme court, who shall hold his office for the term of four years, and until his successor is duly elected and qualified; and the judges of the supreme court, or a majority of them, shall have the power to fill any vacancy in the office of clerk of the supreme court until an election can be regularly had."

Pursuant to the authority granted by this section the legislature in 1931 increased the number of associate justices to four.

If amended as proposed, this section will read as follows:

"The supreme court shall consist of one chief justice and six associate justices. It shall have original jurisdiction in such remedial cases as may be prescribed by law, and appellate jurisdiction in all cases, both in law and equity, but there shall be no trial by jury in said court. It shall hold one or more terms in each year, as the legislature may direct, at the seat of government, and the legislature may provide, by a two-thirds vote, that one term in each year shall be held in each or any judicial district. It shall be the duty of such court to appoint a reporter of its decisions. There shall be chosen, by the qualified electors of the state, one clerk of the supreme court, who shall hold his office for the term of four years, and until his successor is duly elected and qualified; and the judges of the supreme court, or a majority of them, shall have the power to fill any vacancy in the office of clerk of the supreme court until an election can be regularly had."

MICKEY WALKER'S RIGHT DOWNS FONTAINE LAST NIGHT

GOPHERS AND VANDERBILT INTERSECTIONAL TEST

END COMES IN
2 MIN., 24 SECONDS
OF FOURTH ROUND

WALKER'S MANAGER NOW HAS
EYES ON BOUT WITH SCHMELING

MIDDLEWEIGHT CHAMPION TOOK
NO NEEDLESS CHANCES IN THE BATTLE

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 4.—(U.P.)—Mickey Walker's powerful right today had disposed of another boxer along a path which may lead him against Max Schmeling, world heavyweight champion.

The middleweight champion last night disposed of Del Fontaine, Winnipeg, Canadian middleweight champion, after 2 minutes, 24 seconds of the fourth round.

Jack Kearns, Walker's manager, announced during his protege's training here that Walker was negotiating for a bout against Schmeling in Chicago next May.

Walker took no needless chances, playing cautiously during the first round. In the third he had Fontaine down for a short count in his own corner and then landed a right in the fourth that left the Canadian so groggy he made an effort to get up but fell to the floor again. The referee continued to count the full ten while Fontaine's second stood ready to throw in his towel if the Canadian staggered to his feet.

Fontaine carried the fight to Walker in the initial round. The American champion, however, landed several sharp punches, one catching the Canadian off balance and sending him momentarily to the floor. In the earlier rounds, the Winnipeg fighter was faster on his feet while Walker had a more accurate drive in his punches.

The second round was Walker's by only a slight shade but he maintained his superiority by better boxing.

Fontaine, however, was game and fast. Walker sidestepped or blocked most of the blows.

Early in the third Walker came in strong and had Fontaine on the ropes several times. Late in the round he clipped the Canadian down but only for a count of four. Fontaine hung on for the rest of the round.

Walker carried honors in the fourth and put the bout away with his powerful right hook on the chin.

Both scaled 164 pounds.

In the semi-final bout which was held after the main event because Walker had to leave for the east last night, Jimmy Gibbons, 196, St. Paul, won a six-round decision from Angus McDonald, 222, Minneapolis.

Paul George, 118, St. Paul, defeated Joey White, 115½, Minneapolis, in four rounds.

Bob Duffy, 139, St. Paul, won from Arnie Arnold, 140, St. Paul, in a four-rounder.

Bill Oppenard, 192, Minneapolis, defeated Joe Ingsfeld, 179, who substituted for Ray Beck, St. Paul boxer, in four rounds.

Johnny O'Hara, 158½, Minneapolis, shaded Joe Kels, 150, St. Paul, in a close six-round affair.

Gym activities for the boys was started at the Y. M. C. A. when the Pioneer club held a basketball game by choosing up two teams. The Whites winning over the Blues by a score of 10-4.

Gym classes for boys will be started the latter part of next week under supervision.

ST. LOUIS GRITS TEETH TRYING TO TAKE GAME TODAY

3RD STRAIGHT DEFEAT WOULD PUT CARDINALS OUT OF
RUNNING

VICTORY WOULD CEASE TO MAKE
ENGAGEMENT LESS ONE-
SIDED

By FRANK GETTY
(United Press Sports Editor)

St. Louis, Oct. 4.—Backed by their home town fans, pepped up by the forceful admonitions of "Sergeant" Gabby Street and faced with the stern necessity of winning now or never, the St. Louis Cardinals went out today to try to wrest the third game of the 1930 world series from the Philadelphia Athletics.

Defeat today undoubtedly would send the Red Birds to join the unhappy line of National League champions who have been beaten so decisively and unceremoniously by American League clubs during the past three series.

Victory would put an entirely new complexion upon this thus far one-sided engagement for the world's championship, and so the Cardinals tightened their belts and went to Sportsman's Park determined to put up one of those battles which carried them from far behind to a smashing triumph in the recent pennant race.

Upon the strong left arm of young Bill Hallahan, a snub nosed, big eared Irish boy, the National League champions and their followers pinned their hopes. It was Hallahan who pitched them to victory over Brooklyn in what proved the crucial game of the regular season late in September, when they took all the heart out of the Brooklyn Robins in an epic, 1 to 0, ten-inning struggle. And it was Hallahan who held their fate in his ham-like left hand today.

As usual, the astute Mr. McGillicuddy, whose Athletics seem about to present him with his fifth world's championship, was sitting back and saying nothing about his pitching selection for the third game.

Having won with "Lefty" Grove and George Earnshaw, Connie—if the truth must out—has been hoping for some inspiration to help him pick another pitcher who can beat the Cardinals. This would leave him with both Earnshaw and Grove available to put a quick finish to the series.

"I don't know myself, and that's a fact," said the veteran manager of the American League champions when asked concerning his choice for the third game.

It may be Bill Sheres, a rough, tough young right hander, or old Rube Walberg, a wise and wily southpaw. Or it may be Grove right over again, with Earnshaw to follow, in a bold move for a clean sweep of the series.

Shortly before 1:30 P. M. this afternoon one of the Philadelphia pitchers will saunter over to the little white-washed circle reserved for the final warming up, and then, and not until then, will the 42,000 fans in Sportsman's Park and the 42,000,000,000 fans everywhere else know who has been selected.

The Cardinals will try their star southpaw, with a veteran catcher behind the plate instead of young Gus Mancuso. The latter put up a great exhibition of back-stopping in the first two games in Philadelphia, but Street has decided to take a chance upon Jimmy Wilson, who was forced from the line-up late in the season with an injured ankle. Wilson, a veteran, may prove a better receiver for Hallahan, who not so long ago won the appellation of "Wild Bill."

Thus far, the Athletics have been economizing on hits, and have made the dozen obtained off Grimes and Rhem in the first two games good for 11 runs. They feel they are due to cut loose today against Hallahan, and indeed the youngster is being sent into a tight spot on the western front with Mickey Cochrane, Al Simmons and Jimmy Foxx polishing up their bats for a big killing.

Naturally enough the Athletics are overwhelming favorites to win the championship and 7 to 5 choices for today's game.

National League adherents were hopeful that Sportsman's Park, which measures considerably more than Shibe Park from home plate to the right field wall would be able to provide a haven for the sort of fly balls which Cochrane and Simmons developed into home runs in the first two games.

"Tom Thumb baseball," as Hughie Fullerton calls it, is blamed by St. Louis fans for the defeat of their favorites in the opening game of the series, and it is true that given a little more room an alert right fielder could have caught both of the home runs hit on Wednesday.

MICKEY WALKER'S RIGHT DOWNS FONTAINE LAST NIGHT

GOPHERS AND VANDERBILT INTERSECTIONAL TEST

END COMES IN
2 MIN., 24 SECONDS
OF FOURTH ROUND

WALKER'S MANAGER NOW HAS
EYES ON BOUT WITH
SCHMELING

MIDDLEWEIGHT CHAMPION TOOK
NO NEEDLESS CHANCES IN
THE BATTLE

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 4.—(U.P.)—Mickey Walker's powerful right today had disposed of another boxer along a path which may lead him against Max Schmeling, world heavyweight champion.

The middleweight champion last night disposed of Del Fontaine, Winnipeg, Canadian middleweight champion, after 2 minutes, 24 seconds of the fourth round.

Jack Kearns, Walker's manager, announced during his protege's training here that Walker was negotiating for a bout against Schmeling in Chicago next May.

Walker took no needless chances, playing cautiously during the first round. In the third he had Fontaine down for a short count in his own corner and then landed a right in the fourth that left the Canadian so groggy he made an effort to get up but fell to the floor again. The referee continued to count the full ten while Fontaine's second stood ready to throw in his towel if the Canadian staggered to his feet.

Fontaine carried the fight to Walker in the initial round. The American champion, however, landed several sharp punches, one catching the Canadian off balance and sending him momentarily to the floor. In the earlier rounds, the Winnipeg fighter was faster on his feet while Walker had a more accurate drive in his punches.

The second round was Walker's by only a slight shade but he maintained his superiority by better boxing.

Fontaine, however, was game and fast. Walker sidestepped or blocked most of the blows.

Early in the third Walker came in strong and had Fontaine on the ropes several times. Late in the round he clipped the Canadian down but only for a count of four. Fontaine hung on for the rest of the round.

Walker carried honors in the fourth and put the bout away with his powerful right hook on the chin.

Both scored 164 pounds.

In the semi-final bout which was held after the main event because Walker had to leave for the east last night, Jimmy Gibbons, 196, St. Paul, won a six-round decision from Angus McDonald, 222, Minneapolis.

Paul George, 115, St. Paul, defeated Joey White, 115½, Minneapolis, in four rounds.

Bob Duffy, 139, St. Paul, won from Arnie Arnold, 140, St. Paul, in a four-round.

Bill Oppgaard, 192, Minneapolis, defeated Joe Ingsfeld, 179, who substituted for Ray Beck, St. Paul boxer, in four rounds.

Johnny O'Hara, 158½, Minneapolis, shaded Joe Kels, 150, St. Paul, in a close six-round affair.

WHITES WIN OVER

ST. LOUIS GRITS TEETH TRYING TO TAKE GAME TODAY

3RD STRAIGHT DEFEAT WOULD
PUT CARDINALS OUT OF
RUNNING

VICTORY WOULD CEASE TO MAKE
ENGAGEMENT LESS ONE-
SIDED

By FRANK GETTY
(United Press Sports Editor)

St. Louis, Oct. 4.—Backed by their home town fans, pepped up by the forceful admonitions of "Sergeant" Gabby Street and faced with the stern necessity of winning now or never, the St. Louis Cardinals went out today to try to wrest the third game of the 1930 world series from the Philadelphia Athletics.

Defeat today undoubtedly would send the Red Birds to join the unhappy line of National League champions who have been beaten so decisively and unceremoniously by American League clubs during the past three series.

Victory would put an entirely new complexion upon this thus far one-sided engagement for the world's championship, and so the Cardinals tightened their belts and went to Sportsman's Park determined to put up one of those battles which carried them from far behind to a smashing triumph in the recent pennant race.

Upon the strong left arm of young Bill Hallahan, a snub nosed, big eared Irish boy, the National League champions and their followers pinned their hopes. It was Hallahan who pitched them to victory over Brooklyn in what proved the crucial game of the regular season late in September, when they took all the heart out of the Brooklyn Robins in an epic, 1 to 0, ten-inning struggle. And it was Hallahan who held their fate in his ham-like left hand today.

As usual, the astute Mr. McGillicuddy, whose Athletics seem about to present him with his fifth world's championship, was sitting back and saying nothing about his pitching selection for the third game.

Having won with "Lefty" Grove and George Earnshaw, Connie—if the truth must out—has been hoping for some inspiration to help him pick another pitcher who can beat the Cardinals. This would leave him with both Earnshaw and Grove available to put a quick finish to the series.

"I don't know myself, and that's a fact," said the veteran manager of the American League champions when asked concerning his choice for the third game.

It may be Bill Shores, a rough, tough young right hander, or old Rube Walberg, a wise and wily southpaw. Or it may be Grove right over again, with Earnshaw to follow, in a bold move for a clean sweep of the series.

Shortly before 1:30 P. M. this afternoon one of the Philadelphia pitchers will saunter over to the little white-washed circle reserved for the final warming up, and then, and not until then, will the 42,000 fans in Sportsman's Park and the 42,000,000 fans everywhere else know who has been selected.

The Cardinals will try their star southpaw, with a veteran catcher behind the plate instead of young Gus Mancuso. The latter put up a great exhibition of back-stopping in the first two games in Philadelphia, but Street has decided to take a chance upon Jimmy Wilson, who was forced from the line-up late in the season with an injured ankle. Wilson, a veteran, may prove a better receiver for Hallahan, who not so long ago won the appellation of "Wild Bill."

Thus far, the Athletics have been economizing on hits, and have made the dozen obtained off Grimes and Rhem in the first two games good for 11 runs. They feel they are due to cut loose today against Hallahan, and indeed the youngster is being sent into a tight spot on the western front with Mickey Cochrane, Al Simmons and Jimmy Foxx polishing up their bats for a big killing.

Naturally enough the Athletics are overwhelming favorites to win the championship and 7 to 5 choices for today's game.

National League adherents were hopeful that Sportsman's Park, which measures considerably more than Shibe Park from home plate to the right field wall would be able to provide a haven for the sort of fly balls which Cochrane and Simmons developed into home runs in the first two games.

"Tom Thumb baseball," as Hughie Fullerton calls it, is blamed by St. Louis fans for the defeat of their favorites in the opening game of the series, and it is true that given a little more room an alert right fielder could have caught both of the home runs hit on Wednesday.

ALL you sport bugs know that Jimmy McLarnin knocked out Al Singer in the third round at New York City, a fortnight or so ago (as Lord Castle-rosse, English journalist might put it). Before the hard-hitting welter put the Phil Scott on the world's lightweight champion (the title was not at stake in this over-weight affair), many New Yorkers figured that Singer's socks were heavier than Mac's. What a mistake—that idea was! The distinctively New York concept of Al's kick was so steamed up that at the bell, Singer was a slight favorite to wallop the TNT kid from Vancouver, B. C.

Gotham's own did make a gallant attempt to blast out Mac in the first two rounds. In fact, the "new Benny Leonard" dropped Jimmy to his knees for an instant in Round 2 but the Belfast boy (his ancestors may have fought in the Battle of the Boyne!) arose without a count and with clear eyes. He sapped Singer with a heart-thumper and some stiffens to the jaw before that round ended, and in the next he bumped Al off on the second knock-down. Leo McManus, formerly of St. Louis, Mo., had a ringside seat and forgot to bring his field glasses. There was no radio direct report allowed, so Sir Leo had to watch his genial neighbors who were smoking cigars. At the start the perfectors were straight out like Alf's left. When Singer sailed in, the "heaters" went up about 10 degrees. When the "Chom-peen" knocked the Irishman to his knees, the smokers were elevated 45 degrees. But down they began to come with that heart punch in the second round, in the "thoid" there was a general sag in havalas, and when the current "Bennah" Leonard was clipped for the final count, the clean-up squad must have salvaged a small fortune in butts! THE McManus confessed afterwards he couldn't find the major part of the long one he was pulling on when the third stanza started! Oy! Oy!

Just like Al Smith marching through Georgia with Tammany fireworks!

These Roman Roamers again are rich in football talent of a seasoned, brilliantly coached type. They'll have at least a trio of crack backfields, the first string of which will consist of Frank Carideo, a genius at quarter; Marty Brill, former stellar half at Penn; Marchmont Schwartz, a Mississippi Mahan, and Larry ("Moon") Mullings to alternate with the sensational Joe Savoldi at fullback. The latter was the biggest ground-gainer during 1929 in major varsity football. This Carnegie-like line-smasher from Three Oaks, Mich., where he once toted brick-laden hods in order to earn his way through school, should prove a Joesting and a Coy combined when assigned to plunge this season.

Notre Dame has its usual grilling schedule, but it has both the muscle and the mind to meet the situation in usual victorious style. Copyright, 1930, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

MUSICAL CLUB HAS EXCELLENT PROGRAM

Season to Open Here With Appearance of Tolleson Trio Sunday, October 26

TWO BOY WONDERERS BOOKED
Lorna Doone Jaxon, Prima Donna Contralto, is Artist on Second Recital, Nov. 8

The month for the resumption of club activities has arrived and the members of the Brainerd Musical club are agog with anticipation of the good things their program affords.

The Tolleson Trio will open the season on Sunday afternoon, Oct. 26. This trio consists of piano, violin and cello. The pianist and violinist are Augusta and Carl Tolleson, and the cellist, Robert Thrane, has played with them for so many years that he plays like a member of the family. Their sample programs show that the trio gives an ensemble number to open and close the program and the other numbers consists of solos and duets in various combinations, thus affording good variety.

On Saturday, Nov. 8, Lorna Doone Jaxon, prima donna contralto, pupil of the great Calve, will render the program. She has evidently imbibed some of her teacher's genius in the rendition of Carmen, for the Omaha World Herald says of her: "A more bewitching Carmen could hardly be imagined." "A rich contralto voice with a lovely piquant face," was the comment of the Kansas City Journal, while the reporter for the Cincinnati Evening Post is the most enthusiastic of all. "We may possibly have seen some operatic star of greater accomplishment, but in the enthusiasm of the moment we cannot recall one with more radiant personality, one of such fetching presence, one with the vivacity and exuberant spirit of Miss Jaxon in Carmen." J. W. D.

On Nov. 22, we will have the pleasure of hearing the reader from Carleton college who so delighted his audience in his rendition of Macbeth last year, Mr. Cochran. This year, he will probably give a modern drama but whatever is chosen, those who heard him last year will feel assured that he will give an intelligent, dramatic and wholly delightful reading.

On Dec. 13, we will hear the boy wonder—Tomford Harris. He improvised before he was five years old and performed a composition of his own, with orchestra, at 11. At 18, he made his professional debut at Wigmore Hall, London, before a distinguished and critical audience, which he aroused to great enthusiasm. Eugene Goossens, the eminent composer and conductor, honored the occasion by composing two numbers for the program. Only a genius could play the piano in such a way as to arouse the same enthusiasm in such places as the Isle of Jersey that he arouses in large cities and in centers of culture. The London and Paris papers, as well as the leading journals in this country unite in praising this young genius.

On January 18 we will hear another boy wonder Boris Koutzen who also made his debut with orchestra at the age of 11, but the medium through which he expresses his genius is the violin. He played the Mendelssohn concerto at Cherson, Russia, where his father was head of the violin department in the Imperial School of Music.

At the age of 17, he entered the Moscow Imperial conservatory, where he studied violin and composition. At 20, he graduated and was sent to Berlin to complete his education. His first recital in Berlin met with immediate success. Besides giving recitals in Germany and in his native Russia, he has assisted such artists as Chaliapin, Nijinska, Smirnov and others.

And last, but by no means least charming, we shall hear Duncan Robertson on March 14. Mr. Robertson not only has a rich baritone voice but he has a personality. "That makes one feel they never could get enough," says the Portland Argus.

He also has a talent for playing accompaniments, so he plays his own and takes his audience into his confidence, chatting about the songs he sings in the most charming, informal manner. It was in Paris that he first conceived the idea of presenting programs of salon music in this informal way and he made such a hit that he continued this practice when he returned to this country.

It is barely possible that Mr. Robertson may not close the year's program. In this region in April, they may be secured for the grand finale. Since they have been in Brainerd twice, members of the board felt that it might be better to secure talent that had never been heard here. But so many people have said that they alone were worth the price of the Musical club ticket, that a telegram was sent to Harry Culbertson to see if it would still be possible to secure them. As they have no open date that doesn't conflict with dates of artists already engaged until April, the matter is still pending.

There will also be one or two more literary programs for which arrangements have not yet been completed but the above gives enough of the menu to convince any sane person that a feast of good things will be set before every purchaser of a Musical club ticket.

MRS. W. C. COBB.

French, Spanish Music on Stokowski Program

With weeks of intensive labor on his device and on his program behind him and with a week of even more arduous preparation before him, Leopold Stokowski, conductor of the Philadelphia orchestra, today announced the program his orchestra will play during its first radio concert of the season on Sunday, October 12. Only four compositions are scheduled for the hour-long concert.

He will broadcast a program of Mediterranean music the rhythmic fantasy and strange color contrasts of which will express his belief in the elasticity of the modern orchestra. The blood tie of the south binds these compositions together. Two are Spanish, the remaining two French. The selections on Dr. Stokowski's program are:

"Fete Dieu a Seville"—Albeniz
"El Amor Brujo"—Manuel de Falla
"La Cathedrale Engloutie"—Debussy
"Bolero"—Maurice Ravel

The concert, which is under the sponsorship of Philco, goes on the air at 5 P. M., eastern standard time, Sunday, October 12, over an extensive coast-to-coast NBC network. Three others are scheduled to follow—on November 16, on Christmas Day and on Easter Sunday, 1931.

PARK BOARD TO ASK COUNCIL FOR $1,300

Special Appropriation Needed to Insure Building Comfort Station at Lum

DR. LUM GIVES $500
Makes Bequest With Understanding City Will Meet Remainder of Expense

Members of the Brainerd Park Board will appeal to the city council Monday evening for a special appropriation of $1,300 to aid in the construction of modern toilet facilities to be known as a Comfort Station at Lum Park next spring.

They will present the request to make possible the acceptance of a donation of $500 from Dr. C. E. Lum of Duluth who has already been generous as have other relatives of his been towards Lum Park and the city.

Dr. Lum informed the Park Board this week he would make such a contribution to the cost of construction if the city would meet the remaining expense. The total cost is placed at $1,300.

The need for new modern facilities at the park has been long felt. Conditions in respect to toilets have been described as deplorable.

PRESIDENT HOOVER TO SPEAK OVER RADIO

President Herbert Hoover will address the radio audience over WABC and the Columbia network during the broadcasting of the Sesqui-Centennial celebration of the Battle of Kings Mountain, in York county, South Carolina, to be staged on the battle ground Tuesday, October 7. The Columbia network, picking up the proceedings from its Charlotte, N. C., station, WBT, will be on the air from 2:30 to 3:30 P. M., EST.

Besides the address by the president, the speeches of Governors O. Max Gardner, of North Carolina and John G. Richards, of South Carolina, will also be heard by radio listeners during this period of broadcasting.

The Battle of Kings Mountain was the turning point of the American Revolution and hinges upon the desperate situation of the American cause in North and South Carolina in the spring and summer of 1780, when after the fall of Charleston, Cornwallis and his army seemed destined to achieve their goal of completely subduing the South for Great Britain. The winning by the Americans of this most important battle was one in a series of events leading to the ultimate American victory.

MOTOR LICENSES NET STATE 11 MILLIONS

An $11,000,000 business with more than a million transactions annually. That is the Minnesota Motor Vehicle department as characterized from a very significant point of view. According to the report by Mike Holm, secretary of state, who, as registrar is in charge of this department, during the fiscal year July 1, 1929 to July 1, 1930, 763,662 motor vehicle registrations were made with a total payment of $11,144,736.23. In addition to the original registrations, over 300,000 new certificates were issued on account of the sale of used cars which necessitated the recording of transfer of title. This present volume of business marks a tremendous increase. The story in figures seems almost fabulous. In 20 years the number of cars has increased more than a hundred-fold and the registration fees more than a thousand-fold. In 1909 there were 7,065 motor vehicles registered with a payment of $10,597.50. During 1929 the total number of motor vehicles had reached 727,082 and the revenue $10,845,024.99.

"Of course the higher rate of increase in revenues," said Mr. Holm, "is explained by the fact that up to 1921 the registration of motor vehicles was purely in the nature of a safety measure and not for raising revenues. The present plan of taxing motor vehicles for highway funds was put into operation in 1921."

PAID ADVERTISEMENT

For which regular advertising rates are to be paid, inserted in behalf of ALFRED L. THWING of Grand Rapids, Minnesota, candidate for Judge of District Court of the Fifteenth Judicial District, by Itasca County Thwing for Judge Voluntary Committee: C. C. Peterson, of Grand Rapids, Minnesota, secretary.

A Brainerd editor argues for keeping the judgeship in Crow Wing county because it is an "enterprise" bringing business to his community.

An Aitkin partisan calls attention to the fact that Grand Rapids is 26 miles farther than is Brainerd from the village of Aitkin, but offers no figures as to what that might mean to taxpayers of his county. We suggest a possible maximum of $30 per year, even if there be disregarded the willingness of the Grand Rapids candidate to go to Aitkin or other points on special occasions when needed, as the other judges have been accustomed to do. If mileage is to be the measuring stick for the candidates, too, the great majority of voters of the entire district living nearer Grand Rapids than Brainerd might well take note of it.

Brainerd has had a resident judge for 45 years. Itasca county, now having the largest population and by far the largest valuation in the district, with more days of actual court work than any other, has never had one. All these years the residence of our nearest judge has been 73 miles or more from Grand Rapids. In so far as the claims of a locality count, isn't it reasonably fair for us to have our turn now?

SUPPLEMENTAL SCHOOL AID, for which Senator Thwing has led the fight, has been of a net value to Crow Wing county of $28,000 per year.

It is only one of the many instances when our candidate, as citizen, lawyer or legislator, has been the friend and loyal champion of communities of this judicial district, because they deserved it. He claims no obligation owing to him now for doing what he believes was right.

Isn't it possible that just recognition of good service in the past, the assurance Mr. Thwing's record gives of equally good service as a judge, are matters counting for more than whether the position shall be a business-getter for either Brainerd or Grand Rapids?

FINE ART WORK SEEN IN CONTEST

Art Teacher Selects 12 Winners in Picture Coloring Contest

Brainerd showed its adeptness in the use of water colors and crayons, in the picture coloring contest sponsored by the Brainerd Daily Dispatch and the Brainerd Paramount theatre.

The picture featured in the coloring was that of Nancy Carroll and "Buddy" Rodgers during an informal moment on the 18th green to be seen in the production "Follow Thru" showing at the Paramount theatre Sunday night.

Forty eight returns in all were made. Each was well colored.

Miss Madge True, art instructor in the Brainerd schools, was called in to select the winners. She was obliged, because of the closeness of the competition to become technical to group the winners.

Mrs. Theodore N. Brennan, 201 Juniper street, was careful to include proper shadowing effects and combined with an artistic understanding of colors she was given preference in the group, being selected for first place.

Because of the popularity of the contest the Dispatch increased the prize listing to include the first 12 winners. The first two will receive one dollar each, the next five two dollar tickets each and the remaining five one dollar ticket each. The winners will receive their awards by calling at the Dispatch office. Tickets will be good during Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, or Saturday matinee.

Oldest City in World?

It is generally supposed that Damascus, the chief city of Syria, is the oldest city in the world. Although positive evidence is lacking, there is some reason for believing that its site has been continuously occupied by a city longer than any other spot on the earth. The Jewish historian Josephus, who probably based his assertion on a Hebrew tradition, attributed the foundation of Damascus to the great-grandson of Noah.—Pathfinder Magazine.

MUSICAL CLUB HAS EXCELLENT PROGRAM

Season to Open Here With Appearance of Tollefson Trio Sunday, October 26

TWO BOY WONDERS BOOKED

Lorna Doone Jaxon, Prima Donna Contralto, is Artist on Second Recital, Nov. 8

The month for the resumption of club activities has arrived and the members of the Brainerd Musical club are agog with anticipation of the good things their program affords.

The Tollefson Trio will open the season on Sunday afternoon, Oct. 26. This trio consists of piano, violin and cello. The pianist and violinist are Augusta and Carl Tollefson, and the cellist, Robert Thrane, has played with them for so many years that he plays like a member of the family. Their sample programs show that the trio gives an ensemble number to open and close the program and the other numbers consists of solos and duets in various combinations, thus affording good variety.

On Saturday, Nov. 8, Lorna Doone Jaxon, prima donna contralto, pupil of the great Calve, will render the program. She has evidently imbibed some of her teacher's genius in the rendition of Carmen, for the Omaha World Herald says of her: "A more bewitching Carmen could hardly be imagined." "A rich contralto voice with a lovely piquant face," was the comment of the Kansas City Journal, while the reporter for the Cincinnati Evening Post is the most enthusiastic of all. "We may possibly have seen some operatic star of greater accomplishment, but in the enthusiasm of the moment we cannot recall one with more radiant personality, one of such fetching presence, one with the vivacity and exuberant spirit of Miss Jaxon in Carmen." J. W. D.

On Nov. 22, we will have the pleasure of hearing the reader from Carleton college who so delighted his audience in his rendition of Macbeth last year, Mr. Cochran. This year, he will probably give a modern drama but whatever is chosen, those who heard him last year will feel assured that he will give an intelligent, dramatic and wholly delightful reading.

On Dec. 13, we will hear the boy wonder—Tomford Harris. He improvised before he was five years old and performed a composition of his own, with orchestra, at 11. At 18, he made his professional debut at Wigmore Hall, London, before a distinguished and critical audience, which he aroused to great enthusiasm. Eugene Goossens, the eminent composer and conductor, honored the occasion by composing two numbers for the program. Only a genius could play the piano in such a way as to arouse the same enthusiasm in such places as the Isle of Jersey that he arouses in large cities and in centers of culture. The London and Paris papers, as well as the leading journals in this country unite in praising this young genius.

On January 18 we will hear another boy wonder Boris Koutzen who also made his debut with orchestra at the age of 11, but the medium through which he expresses his genius is the violin. He played the Mendelssohn concerto at Cherris in Russia, where his father was head of the violin department in the Imperial School of Music.

At the age of 17, he entered the Moscow Imperial conservatory, where he studied violin and composition. At 20, he graduated and was sent to Berlin to complete his education. His first recital in Berlin met with immediate success. Besides giving recitals in Germany and in his native Russia, he has assisted such artists as Chaliapin, Nejedanova, Smirnov and others. And last, but by no means least, charming, we shall hear Duncan Robertson on March 14. Mr. Robertson not only has a rich baritone voice but he has a personality. "That makes one feel they never could get encores enough," says the Portland Argus.

He also has a talent for playing accompaniments, so he plays his own and takes his audience into his confidence, chatting about the songs he sings in the most charming, informal manner. It was in Paris that he first conceived the idea of presenting programs of salon music in this informal way and he made such a hit that he continued this practice when he returned to this country.

It is barely possible that Mr. Robertson may not close the year's program. If the Russian Kossacks are in the region in April, they may be secured for the grand finale. Since they have been in Brainerd twice, members of the board felt that it might be better to secure talent that had never been heard here. But so many people have said that they, alone, were worth the price of the Musical club ticket, that a telegram was sent to Harry Culbertson to see if it would still be possible to secure them. As they have no open date that doesn't conflict with dates of artists already engaged until April, the matter is still pending.

There will also be one or two more literary programs for which arrangements have not yet been completed but the above gives enough of the menu to convince any sane person that a feast of good things will be set before every purchaser of a Musical club ticket.

MRS. W. C. COBB.

French, Spanish Music on Stokowski Program

With weeks of intensive labor on his device and on his program behind him and with a week of even more arduous preparation before him, Leopold Stokowski, conductor of the Philadelphia orchestra, today announced the program his orchestra will play during its first radio concert of the season on Sunday, October 12. Only four compositions are scheduled for the hour-long concert.

He will broadcast a program of Mediterranean music the rhythmic fantasy and strange color contrasts of which will express his belief in the elasticity of the modern orchestra. The blood tie of the south binds these compositions together. Two are Spanish, the remaining two French. The selections on Dr. Stokowski's program are:

"Fete Dieu a Seville".....Albeniz
"El Amor Brujo".....Manuel de Falla
"La Cathedrale Engloutie".....Debussy
"Bolero".....Ravel

The concert, which is under the sponsorship of Philco, goes on the air at 5 P. M., eastern standard time, Sunday, October 12, over an extensive coast-to-coast NBC network. Three others are scheduled to follow—on November 16, on Christmas Day and on Easter Sunday, 1931.

PARK BOARD TO ASK COUNCIL FOR $1,300

Special Appropriation Needed to Insure Building Comfort Station at Lum

DR. LUM GIVES $500

Makes Bequest With Understanding City Will Meet Remainder of Expense

Members of the Brainerd Park Board will appeal to the city council Monday evening for a special appropriation of $1,300 to aid in the construction of modern toilet facilities to be known as a Comfort Station at Lum Park next spring.

They will present the request to make possible the acceptance of a donation of $500 from Dr. C. E. Lum of Duluth who has already been generous as have other relatives of his betin towards Lum Park and the city. Dr. Lum informed the Park Board this week he would make such a contribution to the cost of construction if the city would meet the remaining expense. The total cost is placed at $1,800.

The need for new modern facilities at the park has been long felt. Conditions in respect to toilets have been described as deplorable.

PRESIDENT HOOVER TO SPEAK OVER RADIO

President Herbert Hoover will address the radio audience over WABC and the Columbia network during the broadcasting of the Sesqui-Centennial celebration of the Battle of Kings Mountain, in York county, South Carolina, to be staged on the battle ground Tuesday, October 7. The Columbia network, picking up the proceedings from its Charlotte, N. C., station, WBT, will be on the air from 2:30 to 3:30 P. M., EST.

Besides the address by the president, the speeches of Governors O. Max Gardner, of North Carolina and John G. Richards, of South Carolina, will also be heard by radio listeners during this period of broadcasting.

The Battle of Kings Mountain was the turning point of the American Revolution and hinges upon the desperate situation of the American cause in North and South Carolina in the spring and summer of 1780, when, after the fall of Charleston, Cornwallis and his army seemed destined to achieve their goal of completely subduing the South for Great Britain. The winning by the Americans of this most important battle was one in a series of events leading to the ultimate American victory.

MOTOR LICENSES NET STATE 11 MILLIONS

An $11,000,000 business with more than a million transactions annually. That is the Minnesota Motor Vehicle department as characterized from a very significant point of view. According to the report by Mike Holm, secretary of state, who, as registrar is in charge of this department, during the fiscal year July 1, 1929 to July 1, 1930, 763,662 motor vehicle registrations were made with a total payment of $11,144,736.29. In addition to the original registrations, over 300,000 new certificates were issued on account of the sale of used cars which necessitated the recording of transfer of title. This present volume of business marks a tremendous increase. The story in figures seems almost fabulous. In 20 years the number of cars has increased more than a hundred-fold and the registration fees more than a thousand-fold. In 1909 there were 7,065 motor vehicles registered with a payment of $10,597.50. During 1929 the total number of motor vehicles had reached 727,082 and the revenue $10,845,024.99.

"Of course the higher rate of increase in revenues," said Mr. Holm, "is explained by the fact that up to 1921 the registration of motor vehicles was purely in the nature of a safety measure and not for raising revenues. The present plan of taxing motor vehicles for highway funds was put into operation in 1921."

PAID ADVERTISEMENT

for which regular advertising rates are to be paid, inserted in behalf of ALBERT L. THWING, of Grand Rapids, Minnesota, candidate for Judge of District Court of the Fifteenth Judicial District, by Isaac County Thwing for Judge Voluntary Committee.

Peterson, of Grand Rapids, Minnesota, secretary.

A Brainerd editor argues for keeping the judgeship in Crow Wing county because it is an "enterprise" bringing business to his community. An Aitkin partisan calls attention to the fact that Grand Rapids is 20 miles farther than is Brainerd from the village of Aitkin, but offers no figures as to what that might mean to taxpayers of his county. We suggest a possible maximum of $30 per year, even if there be disregarded the willingness of the Grand Rapids candidate to go to Aitkin or other points on special occasions when needed, as the other judges have been accustomed to do. If mileage is to be the measuring stick for the candidates, too, the great majority of voters of the entire district living nearer Grand Rapids than Brainerd might well take note of it.

Brainerd has had a resident judge for 45 years. Itasca county, now having the largest population and by far the largest valuation in the district, with more days of actual court work than any other, has never had one. All these years the residence of our nearest judge has been 73 miles or more from Grand Rapids. In so far as the claims of a locality count, isn't it reasonably fair for us to have our turn now?

SUPPLEMENTAL SCHOOL AID, for which Senator Thwing has led the fight, has been of a net value to Crow Wing county of $29,000 per year. It is only one of the many instances when our candidate, as citizen, lawyer or legislator, has been the friend and loyal champion of communities of this judicial district, because they deserved it. He claims no obligation owing to him now for doing what he believes was right.

Isn't it possible that just recognition of good service in the past, the assurance Mr. Thwing's record gives of equally good service as a judge, are matters counting for more than whether the position shall be a business-getter for either Brainerd or Grand Rapids?

FINE ART WORK SEEN IN CONTEST

Art Teacher Selects 12 Winners in Picture Coloring Contest

Brainerd showed its adeptness in the use of water colors and crayons, in the picture coloring contest sponsored by the Brainerd Daily Dispatch and the Brainerd Paramount theatre. The picture featured in the coloring was that of Nancy Carroll and "Buddy" Rodgers during an informal moment on the 18th green to be seen in the production "Follow Thru" showing at the Paramount theatre Sunday only.

Forty eight returns in all were made. Each was well colored. Miss Madge True, art instructor in the Brainerd schools, was called in to select the winners. She was obliged, because of the closeness of the competition to become technical to group the winners.

Mrs. Theodore N. Brennan, 201 Juniper street, was careful to include proper shadowing effects and combined with an artistic understanding of colors she was given preference in the group, being selected for first place.

Because of the popularity of the contest the Dispatch increased the prize listing to include the first 12 winners. The first two will receive one dollar each, the next five two guest tickets each and the remaining five one guest ticket each. The winners will receive their awards by calling at the Dispatch office. Tickets will be good during Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, or Saturday matinee.

Although positive evidence is lacking, there is some reason for believing that its site has been continuously occupied by a city longer than any other spot on the earth. The Jewish historian Josephus, who probably based his assertion on a Hebrew tradition, attributed the foundation of Damascus to the grandson of Noah.—Pathfinder Magazine.
